Take three groups of people and have them each assemble the exact same jigsaw puzzle:

- first group with the puzzle pieces face down,
- second group with the puzzle pieces face up,
- third group with the puzzle pieces face up and with a copy of the puzzle box lid.

As each group completes the puzzle, which group is going to be happier, faster, and more productive? The group with the puzzle box lid.

This book will help you see the puzzle box lid for your company, and those for competitors as well.

With a superior strategy, small companies can overthrow larger ones. With a superior strategy, large companies can maintain leadership positions.

Some say that strategy is just a weak substitute for leadership, and that leadership is more of an art. History has taught us that leadership without a strategy can be like playing with a loaded gun . . . Sometimes things continue without incident, but often someone ends up getting hurt.

Kring Strategy Mapping (KSM) can give you a better feel for how your efforts need to come together into a balanced strategy to guide you and your business to where you need to be.
