Architettura idrosostenibile (Urbanistica e pianificazione territoriale) (Italian Edition) Noemj Lamantia

L'uomo si inserisce con il suo impatto negativo nel normale ciclo dell'acqua causando un impoverimento progressivo delle risorse idriche e per conseguenza ponendo le basi per pericolosi processi di degenerazione idrogeologica ambientale che provocano una riduzione generale della falda acquifera planetaria con conseguente avanzamento della desertificazione. Per proteggere le risorse idriche bisogna abbandonare la convinzione che l'acqua sia una risorsa illimitata. Il risparmio di una risorsa così importante rappresenta infatti una necessità per la vita sul nostro pianeta ed è legato alla possibilità di un reale miglioramento delle generali condizioni di vita umane. Per fare ciò si deve operare su due versanti quello del risparmio della risorsa idrica e quello del miglioramento dei consumi e dei sistemi di consumo.
